

Certain yellow tattoo pigments trigger aggressive phototoxic skin reactions when exposed directly to natural sunlight.

The bright sunflower demands a life of darkness.