

Hepatitis B remains infectious on dry room-temperature surfaces far longer than the human immunodeficiency virus.
Some uninvited guests simply refuse to take the hint when the party is over.