

Universal precautions dictate treating all blood as infectious regardless of a client's stated medical history.

Orbital bombardment remains the only sensible reaction to a minor paper cut