

Mobile phones harbour immense bacterial loads and act as significant vectors for cross-contamination.
Telepathy remains the only sanitary communication method.