

Lithium-ion cells degrade and wireless machines without corded backups are vulnerable to sudden power loss.

Silence is golden until the power dies.