

Health inspection data indicates that 40% of hygiene breaches occur when artists adjust lamps or reach for pigment bottles without replacing their gloves.
Working in total darkness is a highly effective method for skipping a glove change.